Aston, Sheffield

This charming one bedroom semi detached cottage, dating back to the 18th century, is a truly unique opportunity for those seeking character and potential. Available with no onward chain, the property retains a wealth of original features, including exposed beams and traditional fireplaces. The accommodation comprises a welcoming living room, a kitchen area, a spacious double bedroom and an occasional room that could be used as a study or guest space. In need of modernisation, this freehold property offers a fantastic chance to create a bespoke home to your own taste. Situated close to a wealth of local amenities and with excellent transport links nearby, this cottage is ideally positioned for both convenience and lifestyle. Outside are large private gardens perfect for children or pets. This rare find combines period charm with the potential for modern living, making it a wonderful prospect for first-time buyers, downsizers or investors alike. Early viewing is highly recommended to appreciate all that this delightful cottage and its generous outside space have to offer.
